

FINAL EDITION

The Evening

World.

FINAL
EDITION

"Circulation Books Open to All."

"Circulation Books Open to All."

PRICE ONE CENT.

Copyright, 1915, by The News Publishing Co. (The New York World).

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1915.

18 PAGES

8 PRICE ONE CENT.

HOTEL CLERK IDENTIFIES LAWYER OSBORNE;
'THAT'S THE MAN!' DECLARES GIRL AT HEARINGBRITISH AIRSHIPS ON RAID TO GERMAN SUBMARINE BASE IN BATTLE WITH MACHINE GUNSFleet on Daring Trip From Dunkirk to Suburb of Antwerp—Great Battle Raging in the Carpathians.

LONDON, March 24 [Associated Press].—The British Admiralty this afternoon issued a statement saying that a British air raid had been successfully carried out today on German submarines at Hoboken, three miles outside of Antwerp. The Admiralty statement was as follows:

"The following has been received from Wing Commander Longmore: I have to report that a successful air attack was carried out this morning by five machines of the Dunkirk squadron on the German submarines being constructed at Hoboken, near Antwerp.

"Two of the pilots had to return owing to thick weather, but Squadron Commander Ivor T. Courtney and Flight Lieut. H. Rosher reached their objects and after plying down to 1,000 feet dropped four bombs each on the submarines.

"It is believed that considerable damage has been done to both the works and two submarines.

"The works were observed to be on fire. In all, five submarines were observed on the slip.

"Flight Lieut. B. Crossley-Moates was obliged by engine trouble to descend in Holland. Owing to the mist the two pilots experienced considerable difficulty in finding their way and they were subjected to a heavy gun fire whilst delivering their attacks."

Fight Now on in Mountains;
One of the Greatest of the War

BERLIN, March 24 (By Wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—Reports from the Carpathian Mountains indicate that one of the greatest and most sanguinary battles of the campaign is now on. A special correspondent of the Lokai Anzeiger telegraphs:

"The great, bloody battle is now in full swing in the Carpathians. It has not yet reached a point where a definite judgment can be passed on the events at any point. The conflict is likely to be waged some days yet with equal fierceness by both sides.

"The next few days probably will see the released Przemysl investment army engaged in this struggle."

[The Russian force that invested Przemysl has been estimated at from 100,000 to 210,000 men. It would seem likely that at least 200,000 Russian soldiers had been released by the fall of the Austrian fortress for active duty in the field. If these were rushed southward they might turn the tide of the present battle against the Austro-German forces and win a decisive victory for the Czar's armies.]

200,000 Victorious Russians
Cheer 120,000 Captured Austrians

PETROGRAD, March 24.—Two hundred thousand Russian troops and many batteries of new artillery were released for the Carpathian and Hungarian campaigns by the surrender of Przemysl. The big Slav army, fresh from the greatest Russian victory of the war, is prepared to strike at the Austro-Germans as soon as trains can carry them to the front.

It is believed the garrison was allowed full honors of war, that no prisoners will be sent to Siberia and that the defenders were cheered as they marched out.

The War Office thus far has made no official announcement of the size of the Russian army investing the Austrian fortress. The official statement that 119,000 Austrians laid down their arms and that the fortress originally was garrisoned by 170,000 men indicates that at least five Russian army corps formed the impenetrable ring about Przemysl. It is said 600 big guns and several thousand smaller ones were captured.

As rapidly as possible the Austrian prisoners are being hurried out of Przemysl and across the Galician border to Russian prison camps. Several thousand already have arrived at Klat their clothing in tatters some of them suffering from disease.

Several bodies of Russian troops have marched into Przemysl, but the main Russian force is still encamped

MAYO TRANSFERS HOME
MRS. DUDLEY OCCUPIES

The property at No. 144 Fourth Street, Brooklyn, occupied by Mrs. Lett Dudley, and owned by Virginia J. Mayo, the New Haven man, whose marriage certificate have come to light since Lillian May, 22, Union Street, committed suicide after leaving her offices, was today transferred by Mayo to F. Keen Shum, an attorney of Manhattan. The papers in the case were put on record in the Register's office by Mr. Shum.

Effort was made to learn if the change meant that Mrs. Dudley was going to leave Brooklyn, but she insisted she "knew nothing about it."

She would not say whether or not it meant she was going to leave the house.

She said no money had changed hands with the transfer. When she was asked if it meant Mrs. Dudley was going away, he answered:

"I think she will not be disturbed."

BOY BRANDED WITH
INITIALS BY STRANGE
MAN IN JERSEY CITY.MYSTERIOUS MEN
BRAND A CHILD
IN JERSEY CITYInitials Burned in Three-Year-Old Boy's Back Puzzle
the Parents.

Excitement prevailed in the Greenville section of Jersey City today over the mysterious burning of three letters in the back of three-year-old Daniel McKillop Jr., by two men who seized the little fellow near his home at No. 182 Neptune Avenue and carried him into a vacant lot.

The boy's father, Daniel McKillop, a contractor plumber, doesn't know what to make of the attack. The police believe it may have been done by men with "ripper" tendencies. Mrs. McKillop is of the belief that discharged employees of her husband, angered by fancied wrongs, branded her son.

Whatever the motive of the attack, mothers in the Greenville section have been greatly frightened by it, and a youngster was playing out of doors three today but was under some sort of family guard.

Because of his tender years little Daniel McKillop hasn't been able to tell much of the manner in which he was mistreated. But the three letters, "A. H. N.," branded in his back over the base of the spine, told plain than spoken words of mysterious inhuman conduct.

"What did the men look like?" asked Mrs. McKillop.

"Big men," answered Daniel, and that was all she could get out of him, except that the attack took place in a lot at the northeast corner of the Old Bergen Road and Neptune Avenue.

AUSTRIAN EMPEROR
REPORTED AS SEEKING FOR SEPARATE PEACE

LONDON, March 24.—The Exchange Telegraphs correspondent at The Hague called here this afternoon to have learned from diplomatic sources that Emperor Franz Josef is endeavoring through the Vatican to obtain a permission for Austria to conclude a separate peace.

DETECTIVES GUARD
"RIPPER" SUSPECT;
NEW ARREST MADEMan With Blood Stains on Clothing Is Held, Accused by Little Girls.

HOUSE IS SURROUNDED.

Police Believe Murderer of Leonore Cohn Lives in the Same Tenement She Did.

While the police believe that the murderer of little Leonore Cohn lives in the tenement in which the crime was committed, they will not arrest him until they have completed certain investigations which are expected to furnish strong corroboration.

A detective is posted in front of the man's door; two others guard the streets near by, and should he attempt to flee by way of the dark stair leading down from the place where he put the body of his victim, he will find another detective waiting for him in the back yard.

The suspect knows that the police have been investigating him since Saturday evening, when his vagaries first became known to them. He has told several of his friends that he is not afraid and that he has a perfect alibi.

He has told the detectives in answer to their repeated questions that he did not leave his flat from the time he entered it—5:15 P. M.—until he was called out by the cries of the Misses Johnson, who found the body.

It is regarded as curious by the police that a dull blade knife was found on the roof of the house at 4 P. M. on Sunday, the day after the suspect knew that he was being investigated. The police say that the knife was placed there by some one seeking to throw them off the track of the real criminal; for they had been over the spot where it was found, again and again. Richard Ecker, the child's cousin, dentist's student, was the finder.

Mrs. Savarino, wife of a neighboring druggist, who was devoted to little "Smarty," as the child was called by her admiring neighbors, has been ill since the discovery of the crime that she could not see strangers.

Now she has told the police that she took Leonore to the vacation picture show nearby on Friday afternoon and brought her home at 4 P. M. She did not give the child any candy or money.

No one else did until the murderer, whom she knew as a friend, handed it to her. Mrs. Jurgens, from whom the child got the milk, gave her only two animal crackers.

The suspect is described as a man of strange habits. The first thing that attracted attention to him was the fact he sometimes masqueraded in women's clothes. He explained to the police he did it for "fun." Knives that might have been used in the commission of such a crime have been found in his apartment, it is said, and there also was a grindstone on which they could be sharpened, or on which toll-like stains could be ground off. The dead girl knew him.

It is considered significant that the children of the suspect live in the Papineau Street in East Twenty-eighth Street corner of Third Avenue, and pass the spot at No. 283 Third Avenue, where the police found on sale the curious top-shaped yellow hard candy that was found, very little diminished, in the hand of the little victim.

The hands were so small that no

(Continued on Second Page.)

MADMAN CAUSES
PANIC ON TROLLEY
CAR; FIGHTS 9 MENHe Suddenly Loses Reason on Third Avenue Line and Passengers Flee.

HOT BATTLE FOLLOWS.

Six Policemen and Three Car
Men Finally Overcome
Desperate Maniac.

A man who suddenly went insane took possession of a downtown Third Avenue car at Chatham Square shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon, caused the passengers to leap into the street panic-stricken, and then, when the end of the line was reached, fought six policemen, the conductor, motorman and a starter.

Not until the car had been run onto a siding and held there for half an hour was the insane man overpowered, attended by Surgeon Morone of the Volunteer Hospital, and sent to treatment there yesterday.

Conductor William Nagel told the police he did not know where the man boarded the car. He first noticed him at Chatham Square, where he began pacing up and down the aisle and shaking his fist at the other passengers, who began stampeding to the street.

At the end of the line in Park Row near the Postoffice, Nagel and Motorman Thomas Burke tried to quiet him, but he grew worse. A big crowd gathered around the car and Starter Alexander Proctor waited for the police. His signal brought Serg. Benjamin Ellis and Policemen Nylander, Baldwin, Lintner, Pollack and Brown to the scene.

The man who suddenly lost his reason is about forty years old and well dressed.

CITY HEADS HAVE MONEY SPENDING
MANIA, IS CHARGEAttacked in Senate for Extravagance and Failure to Collect Taxes.(Special from a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

ALBANY, March 24.—New York's finances were debated in the Senate today and vigorous attacks made upon municipal extravagance and waste. The subject of the debate was the city's failure to collect taxes. Senator Bennett, Progressive Republican from the upper west side, introduced a legislative resolution providing that a legislative committee investigate the finances of the city.

The debate began with a warning to the city fathers to stop their waste. "The city is a vast machine," said Bennett, "and it is the duty of the city fathers to see that it is properly maintained."

"This mania for spending money is not just the fault of the city fathers," he said, "it is the fault of the people. They are willing to pay taxes, but they are not willing to pay them."

The debate was continued until midnight.

WOMAN WHO SWEARS
J. W. OSBORNE MADE
PROMISE TO WED HERMOTHERS' PENSIONS
BILL IS PASSED BY
THE ASSEMBLYMeasure Adopted by Vote of 129 to 8—It Now Goes to
Gov. Whitman for Signature.Special from a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.

ALBANY, March 24.—The bill for mothers' pensions for widowed mothers was passed by the Assembly today, the vote being 129 to 8.

It previously had passed the Senate and now goes to the Governor for signature.

Majority Leader Hoffman opposed the passage of the bill, but his efforts to secure a filibuster in his opposition were quite futile, as shown by the vote.

The measure was championed by The Evening World.

The Administration has run riot driving bills for introduction in this body providing for spending money. I have before me fifty or sixty such bills.

"Taxpayers of New York City cannot stand further taxation. The Administration has no thought of checking expenditures. Their sole idea is finding new sources of revenue. They seem intoxicated with large amounts of money they handle. The city wants relief, but not relief through this kind of extravagance and waste."

Senator Fiske said an investigation should be made into the subject of municipal extravagance.

"I am anxious for expenditures," he said, "being taxed as they are, but we are running behind five to ten million a year for taxes expended and we are not getting it. This is a situation which is not only a disgrace to the city, but it is a disgrace to the State."

The debate was continued until midnight.

The debate was continued until midnight.

'NEVER SAW THE GIRL,' ASSERTS OSBORNE
ON WITNESS STANDRae Tanzer and Sister Also Identify Lawyer as Man Who Wooed
Girl Under Name of
'Oliver Osborne.'MANY WOMEN IN CROWD
AT THE FEDERAL COURT

The defense in the case of Rae Tanzer who was arrested for using the mails in an attempt to defraud, after she had sued James W. Osborne, the lawyer, for $50,000 breach of promise damages, put on the stand in the course of the hearing before United States Commissioner Houghton this afternoon a hotel clerk who positively identified James W. Osborne as the man who registered as "O. Osborne, N. Y.," at the Kensington Hotel, Plainfield, N. J., on October 18th last. He also identified Rae Tanzer as the woman who was registered by the man as "Mrs. O. Osborne."

Mr. Osborne took the stand calmly but it caused an outbreak of excitement and buzzing comment in the court room, which was jammed with interested spectators, mostly women. United States District Attorney Marshall and his assistants, Wood and Herghenstein, held whispered conversations with Mr. Osborne before taking up the cross-examination.

The witness was E. T. Stafford of Bound Brook, N. J. On Oct. 18 he was a clerk in the Kensington Hotel. "On that date," he was asked by David Slade, counsel for Miss Tanzer, "did a man and woman register at the hotel as 'Mr. and Mrs. O. Osborne, New York?'"

"They did," replied the witness. "Can you identify the couple in this courtroom?"

Stafford walked down to Mr. Osborne, placed his hand on his shoulder and said: "This is the man." Then, walking to Miss Tanzer, he indicated her by pointing and said: "That is the woman." He told in detail of conversations with the pair, and said they skipped out late in the afternoon without paying for room No. 19, which they had occupied for a couple of hours.

Osborne, he said, recommended himself as a recent arrival from the West employed in the New York Custom House and looking for a home in a suburban community.

"They had some dinner," said Stafford, "and I sent them out to look at some houses. I knew where to rent. They came back in about an hour and said the houses were too close to the railroad tracks. I then said they had better see a real estate agent. They said they were tired and would have a room at the hotel until they were settled. The man said his baggage was in New York and he would send it out the next day."

"I showed them several rooms and they picked No. 19. They were about 10 o'clock. When asked how much they paid for the room, he said: "There was no charge. There was no key. I opened the door and the woman was empty."

"What did you see?" asked the witness.

"I saw a man and a woman. The man was about 40 years old, dark hair, and was wearing a suit. The woman was about 30 years old, dark hair, and was wearing a dress. They were both looking at me and smiling."

Mr. Osborne asked that the Tanzer girl be produced out to him. When he saw her he announced that it was the first glimpse he had ever had of her in his life.

"What's that the man?"

Mr. Osborne asked that the Tanzer girl be produced out to him. When he saw her he announced that it was the first glimpse he had ever had of her in his life.

"What's that the man?"